THREE HUNDRED DIE IN SEA WHEN SHIP DRIFTS ONTO ROCKS

Only Four Were Saved on Army Transport: Captain Suicides

Santiago, Chile, July 9—(AP)—Of some three hundred persons who were aboard the army transport Amagamos only four were alive today to tell how the vessel had pounded to pieces on the rocks. The catastrophe which claimed upwards of 300 lives occurred at Punta Chimpel, near the south Chilean coast town of Lebu, Friday night.

The captain unable to avert disaster, committed suicide on the bridge. Eighty bodies were found on the beach near Coronel but the exact number who perished probably will never be known since after leaving Punta Arenas with 291 persons aboard the vessel made several stops enroute picking up additional passengers.

The ship had been loading material for the Chilean navy in the Gulf of Arauco when a storm broke later in the afternoon. The vessel left the bay to ride it out. The heavy seas smashed the rudder. The ship started to drift toward the breakers. Frantic appeals for help were sent out. None came. At 10 p. m. the vessel crashed on the rocks about 300 yards from the shore.

Frantic attempts to launch life boats were made. They capsized as soon as they were lowered into the tremendous seas. Their human freight was tossed on the rocks by the breakers or drawn back into the angry sea.

Men, women and children perished in the seas while others remained huddled on the deck crying piteously and in vain for help.

Through the roar of the storm, the shrill blasts of the ship's whistle sounded continuously, calling for aid. Above the bedlam the sharp report of Commander Smael Suarez' pistol rang out and he fell dead at his post on the bridge.

The vessel had filled rapidly with water and three hours after she struck was virtually buried under the waves. Then the ship broke in two and the few who remained aboard were thrown into the sea. One of the survivors, Jose Aguilera, an army conscript, said in a hospital at Belen:

"My companions and I were saved. The only one who was not was the captain. I remember is that after being thrown into the water I clutched a floating timber. A huge wave raised me thirty feet into the air and dashed me against a rock. I do not recall what took place afterward. When I recovered consciousness, I found myself, stark naked, sprawled upon the beach."

Another survivor, Andreas Carrillo, a sailor said he could not explain how he was saved. After being cast on the beach naked, he looked for the ship but could see nothing. He thought it had gone down.

Search For Survivors.
Carrillo made his way to the nearest house. He was refused admittance, the inhabitants thinking him a tramp. After an hour of argument he convinced the housewife that he really needed assistance. After a brief rest they set out in search of other survivors. They found three army conscripts, Aguilera, Humberto Sepulveda and Humberto Diaz, all dead.

The Ministry of Marine announced that when the cruiser Zenteno and the destroyer Williams reached the scene they found no trace of the Amagamos, nor any survivors.

The passengers aboard the Amagamos included laborers and their families enroute to the nitrate fields in the north. It is understood that several government officials and their families were also aboard the vessel. When leaving Punta Arenas, and before additional passengers were taken aboard, there were 215 members of the crew and 76 passengers on the vessel.

Public funeral services will be held at Concepcion on Tuesday. The flags of the provincial government buildings and the consulate were flying at half mast today.

STERLING WOMAN DIES IN CAR AS HER HEART FAILS

While returning from a family picnic at Prophetstown late Sunday afternoon Mrs. Mary A. O'Rourke of Sterling, widow of the late Bernard O'Rourke, who was well known in Dixon, was stricken with heart failure and died in her son's automobile almost instantly. The aged lady, with her son, William, and his family, consisting of his wife and three children, were on their way home from the outing when one of the little granddaughters noticed her grandmother's head slump forward and her hat fall off. She called to her father who immediately stopped the car and tried to resuscitate her. Failing to see any signs of life he drove hurriedly to the nearest farm house, to which the stricken woman was carried, and a physician was summoned. The doctor announced, after his examination, that her death had probably been instantaneous.

MIDWEST SUFFERED AND SWELTERED IN HEAT OVER SUNDAY

Thirty Two Lives are Lost
Because of Torrid
Weather

Chicago, July 9—(AP)—Arctic and equatorial lent phenomena and torridity to the midwest over Sunday. Aurora borealis streaked the night skies, while the daytime was a succession of blistering hours that claimed at least 32 lives and sent sweltering thousands to beaches for relief.

Chicago with its massed millions had 15 deaths directly attributable to heat. Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Kansas also reported fatalities either from drowning or heat prostration. Out of the west last night there came slight relief, borne on the thunder clouds which dumped cooling storms over much of the heat-afflicted area. Throughout the night the mercury sagged slowly from marks as high as 100 degrees, and the readings were down to 70 in many places this morning.

An official estimate of the number of persons who crowded the Lake Michigan beaches in Chicago was 600,000.

Northern Lights Were Visible
The aurora borealis, which was pronounced Saturday night, disrupted wire communication and hindered radio reception. Radio announcements directed much attention to the auroral manifestation in Chicago, where it is only occasionally seen. It shot across the skies from the horizons, to vanish at the zenith, like the wrath of Valkyries gliding with incredible speed to some Valhalla on the roof of the skies.

In Iowa the showers that broke the heat wave were spoken of as "the million dollar rain" because of the benefit brought to growing crops. Despite the relief brought by dropping temperatures, two more names were added this morning to the list of heat victims. Miss Alice Howard, 53 and Edward Settles, 46, a Negro, were overcome in their homes and died of heart disease and heat prostration.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 9—(AP)—Her life saved in a boat explosion by William B. Leeds, son of the late tin plate king, Adele Astaire, actress, was in a hospital today. When Leeds' $75,000 speedboat, Fan Tail, burned to the water's edge at a pier here yesterday afternoon, both were severely injured.

Leeds and Miss Astaire, who with her brother and dancing partner, Fred Astaire, was a week-end guest at the Leeds' Long Island home at Cove Neck, had just entered the boat to take a trial spin. He started the motor when the backfire ignited gasoline seepage in the hull of the craft. The boat almost immediately was enveloped in flame.

Leeds picked up Miss Astaire, who had collapsed and lifted her to landing stage. Then climbing out himself he pushed the Fan Tail out into clear water. An explosion occurred a moment later.

Mrs. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, and Fred Astaire were standing on the pier awaiting to get into the boat when the accident occurred.

That Locality

London, July 9—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph Company prints a rather startling dispatch from Dunkirk which gives a new theory on the disappearance of Captain Alfred Lowenstein, Belgian financier.

A fisherman of the small village of Bray-Dunes, on the coast of France, says the dispatch, is reported to have stated that he was certain he saw a parachute fall from the skies about the time the Lowenstein plane was crossing the English channel and alight a few miles from the place where he was.

He did not bother to investigate at the time as he saw a boat near the place where the parachute came down.

Mr. Schuler reports the wheat crop in the southwest as being very satisfactory, but declares that the crops in Lee county and vicinity look better than any he saw between here and Oklahoma.

STORM DAMAGED EXPOSITION AT STERLING PARK

Big Tent is Torn and Blown Down and Exhibits Damaged

The weather man made good on the promises he authorized The Telegraph to publish Saturday evening, and brought most welcome relief from the heat wave which held the midwest in its grasp the last of the week.

But he didn't bring the aforesaid relief until after he had established a record for the year, thus far, by driving the mercury in the government thermometer at Shuck & Bates store up to a maximum of 93 Saturday afternoon. Saturday night was nothing to brag about in the matter of cooling breezes, etc., nor was Sunday morning, when the temperature mounted steadily until it reached a high of 90 shortly after noon.

Then came the rain—as they say in the films. And following the rain, which was heavy and accompanied by moderately high wind, the mercury continued to get down off its high boughs and during the night became fit to associate with human beings, the low for the night being 67.

Damage at Sterling
The winds which accompanied the rain did little damage in this vicinity, as far as had been reported at noon today, but the American Legion Mid-West Exposition at Sterling, which ran into a whole flock of bad weather last week, suffered. The big tent, which covered the exhibits of merchants, was blown down and torn badly, damage to the big top alone being estimated at $4,000, while loss to exhibitors caused by the water had not been announced today.

It was stated that Sterling Post, American Legion, lost over $3,000 in its amusement venture; but it was also announced that the Post has resources with which to liquidate its indebtedness and expects to have all bills paid within 30 days.

Smith, the Ministerial Association of Bureau county, composed of most of the pastors of the county, last week in session unanimously passed a resolution expressing gratification for the dry planks in both parties but announcing that they "deeply resent the attitude taken by Alfred E. Smith, the candidate for president of the United States on the Democratic ticket in his acceptance telegram which nullifies the dry platform adopted by the Democratic convention, and whereas the Governor of New York, Alfred E. Smith, had openly declared himself both in word and deed during his 20 years of public life, as unalterably opposed to the enactment and enforcement of the 18th amendment, for other prohibition laws, we the members of the Bureau county, Illinois Ministers Association, place ourselves on record as opposing the election of Alfred E. Fog and Strong Winds
Force Flier Back
After Good Start

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, July 9—(AP)—Captain Frank T. Courtney, who attempted a trans-Atlantic flight last year and got no further than the coast of Spain, has failed in his first attempt this year.

Hopping off at 6:25 A. M. Greenwich Meridian time (1:25 A. M. Eastern Standard Time) Sunday for Halifax, he returned ten hours later. Fog and strong winds forced him to put back.

Before he turned his progress westward had twice been reported. At 8:30 A. M. Greenwich time, the steamers Lafayette and Balmoral Castle received this radio message from his flying boat.

"Bound for Newfoundland. All well."

A radio message relayed by the liner Homeric from the steamship Sagmore stated that the plane had been sighted headed northwest at 10:18 A. M.

Captain Courtney arrived at Horta on June 23 from Lisbon, Portugal. With him were E. B. Hosmer of Montreal, backer of the flight; Fred Pierce, mechanic and E. W. Gilmour, radio operator. In that flight his radio was damaged and he was held at Horta until it was repaired.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

All Grains Hit New Low Price For Year

Chicago, July 9.—(AP)—New low price records for the season were reached today by wheat, corn, oats and rye, especially the December deliveries. Big receipts of wheat, excellent weather for corn, and increased cutting of new oats were leading factors. Besides, export demand was slow for wheat from North America.

Wheat closed heavy, 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 net lower, corn 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 off, oats 1 1/2 to 6 1/2 down, and provisions showing 10 to 35c decline.

Large receipts of wheat in the southwest today gave particular significance to announcement that notwithstanding heavy rains the progress of harvest would not be interrupted. Arrivals of wheat today at Wichita, for example were more than double those of a year ago. Furthermore with corn and oats developing notable weakness, the wheat market much of the time tended downward. All deliveries of oats today reached the lowest prices yet this season.

Favorable crop reports from the northwest today contributed likewise to bearish sentiment regarding wheat.

Advices of black rust on lower sheath blades were received, but as a rule head stems appeared as yet to be exempt. On the other hand, world shipments of wheat were smaller, and the amount of wheat on ocean passage showed a falling off of 664,000 bushels.

INDEPENDENTS IN TIE FOR LEAGUE LEADING HONORS

Locals Celebrate Their Entrance to League With a Victory

The Dixon Independents celebrated their entrance to the Blackhawk Baseball League very impressively Sunday afternoon at their field on West Eighth street, when before a fair sized crowd of fans they defeated the Forrester team, 3 to 1, in a game which was featured by fine pitching and tight fielding by both aggregations. Reddish, on the mound for the local team, was complete master of the visitors, and as a result of his work the Independents are tied with Polo and the Rockford Mutuals for the lead.

Polo trimmed Freeport 12 to 7 in yesterday afternoon's opening games of the second half of the league season, and the Rockford Mutuals triumphed over Shannon 2 to 0 in seven innings.

Reddish Looked Good. In yesterday's game, under Rusk, the Independents played better ball than they have in any of their previous appearances, and Reddish looked like a big leaguer, allowing but five hits. He would have scored a shut-out but for an error in the seventh inning, which should have resulted in the third out, but which, instead, allowed a Forrester player to scoot home from third with the visitors' only run.

Swift and Shute both pitched good ball for the visitors, and until the sixth inning it was anybody's game, but in that frame the Independents made all their runs on a base on balls, three hits and a fielder's choice. The Independents go to Rockford next Sunday and a number of the Dixon fans are planning to accompany them.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH NOTES

July business routine, with reports from mail sections will be the feature of the all-day work and council of the Ladies' Aid society, at the church on Wednesday. The family lunch at the 12 o'clock hour, as usual. Mid-week prayers, 7.30, with the minister in charge.

Tuesday evening at 6.30 o'clock, cars will leave the church for Lowell Park, conveying the members of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle to the annual outing program and picnic supper.

Next Sunday, in the morning service, a state representative of the Anti-Saloon League will bring the report of the achievements of that efficient and praiseworthy organization, and receive the church's annual contribution for its maintenance.

The League was never more needed by the churches, or more useful in the cause of temperance than today.

Word came this morning of the splendid progress of H. W. Stauffer, one of the church's elders, who underwent an operation at the Mayo Brothers' hospital, at Rochester, Minn., Tuesday of last week. Mrs. Stauffer has been with him for a week, but expects to return home tomorrow, with Mr. Stauffer hoping to leave Rochester within probably a week.

The Grand Detour church and Bible school will have an all-day picnic at Lowell Park on Thursday. Because of the day's outing, the choir rehearsal for that evening has been cancelled.

THE TINY, SMILING LADY—
(Written for the Christian Science Monitor)
Among the tiny trinkets
That come from far Japan,
Is a tiny, tiny lady
With a tiny, tiny fan.

She is cut from glistening ivory,
Rubbed soft with gentle hand,
She never tires of smiling,
For she thinks of cherry land.

Her heart is in the sunshine,
And her eyes see flowers fair,
That's why she's always smiling,
For she's really—over there!

LUNCHEON— Green pea bisque, toast sticks, tomato sandwiches, bread pudding, lemonade.

DINNER— Broiled mutton cutlets, scalloped potatoes, steamed kale with lemon butter, stuffed beet salad, strawberry mousse, plain cake, milk, coffee.

Strawberry Mousse
One quart berries, 11-2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 21-2 cups whipping cream.

Hulk wash and drain berries. Sprinkle with sugar and let stand one hour. Press through a coarse sieve. Soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over hot water and stir into berries. Let stand until mixture begins to thicken. Fold in cream whipped until firm. Turn into mold and pack in ice and salt. Let stand four hours. Use six cups of finely crushed ice to one cup of ice cream salt.

Two Night Recital Was Most Enjoyable

Most enjoyable were the dance recitals given on Friday and Saturday evening at the Dixon theater before the first and second shows, by Miss Lucille Kelly's students of the dance and in which she also gave several beautiful dances. The recital was called "Garden of Dreams," and all the numbers were enthusiastically applauded.

Special stage settings and lighting effects aided in the artistic production and the recitals moved as smoothly as though put on by professionals. Many of the little girls are natural dancers and the training brings out the latent talent they possess.

The recitals were the same on both Friday and Saturday evenings. The curtain rose on a veritable flower bed, the blossoms arising from the floor where they were seated, and gave pretty dances, dressed to represent the flowers whose names they bore, as follows:

Flowers—
Bluebells—
Josephine Trumble, Doris Baker, White Lilies
Eleanor Kurzrock, Julia Trumble, Lavender Iris
Roses Wanda Walder, Janice Brant, Lavender Iris
Vera Wade, Etola Miller
Yellow Chrysanthemums—
Lois Hallenberg, Lorraine Giannoni, Rose Bud
Carrine Giannoni
Roses otherwise specified, all the dances were ballet or toe dances, reflecting credit to the children and their teacher.

Josephine Trumble and Doris Baker were the appealing bluebells, Eleanor Kurzrock and Julia Trumble were the dainty white lilies, the roses were Wanda Walder and Janice Trumble in dainty pink, the lovely lavender iris was represented by Vera Wade and Etola Miller, the graceful chrysanthemums by Lois Hallenberg and Lorraine Giannoni, and the daintiest rosebud, you ever saw by Corrine Giannoni who came in at the last and was greeted by her sister flowers as she blew kisses to them. The little girls all wore short full tulle ballet skirts in the various colors, over the bodices of green coming down over the hips like the calyx of a flower, with dainty caps on their heads like the blossoms they were supposed to be.

Especially lovely was the toe dance by Mildred Segner, the Adoration of the Rose, which she danced dressed all in white with a yellow rose in her hand. She gives promise of a future in dancing, being graceful and well poised. All in green like a lively, agile frog, Kathryn Proetz gave a happy frog frolic and Helen Clay dressed as a red tulip bud whose petals opened as she danced, wore a cleverly designed skirt, which carried out the idea in the graceful number. The Aerial Toe dance by Miss Kelly was a beautiful and finished number. Miss Kelly was appropriately and artistically applauded. End Segner in a pretty blended costume of colors gave Frivolity, a gay and happy dance. Miss Elsie Neff costumed as a gypsy, with her tambourine gave a delightful acrobatic dance. She is excellent in this line of work. The toe solo by Mary Bennett was a charmingly rendered dance; and cunning Wanda Walder, in the Baby Chick dance was most appealing; and Iola Ringler in her fantastic number won many admirers by her spirited and graceful work. The Waltz clog by Bernice Radef was given in quite a professional manner and was very good; Virginia Wheeler, all in blue with her pocket book and vanity case represented the fair debutante and her dance was beautifully done. Miss Kelly in her Variety Tap dance was as usual charming and she evidenced in the several different dances in this recital that she has mastered many different phases of the dance, and does them all with equal grace and spirit. Gail and Betty George, woodland Nymphs were well poised

CAMP SPIRIT
By Eleanor Clayton

Every word has a different picture for each of us. The phrase carnival-spirit has an unusually large connotation. To some of us it brings the picture of the bright, gaudy, but withal, a little cheap, carnivals which move from town to town.

Others who have traveled or read widely are reminded of gay, flower-strewn fetes celebrated by the folk of some provinces or towns. Then there are May-day carnivals, water carnivals, and harvest carnivals. Whatever the kind, there is always a carefree, joyous spirit. Laughter and jollity are prevalent. Everyone is quick in competition, eager to play, ready with applause and cheers.

Meanness, workaday cares, and troubles are forgotten. How much lighter our burdens, if we always carried some carnival spirit with us. Let's try it.

LOCAL BRIEFS
By Kathleen Nagle

Double accident this morning. Eleanor Clayton followed Mrs. Yohn's suit by having a flat tire. We wonder who fixed it.

Sara Altkruse is the permanent hair dresser of the camp.

Evelyn Kreim took the wrong road this morning, when asked where she was going she answered, "cray."

Sara is getting very ambitious as she has done the dishes today.

Wilbur Stitzel is getting very near sighted as he mistook "Cooky's" laughter for Mr. Yohn's crying. I never knew anybody ever thought Mr. Yohn was so chicken-hearted.

It is reported that in case Mrs. Lazier is detained in town Harriet Utley will take her place in tent four. I surely pity the kids in that tent.

Mrs. Yohn barely escaped being fined yesterday when she double-parked. She was taken before the chief and after a short talk was released. I wonder if her dimples played any part in obtaining her release.

Stitzel is already engaged as servant to Billie Scott for her mosquitoes.

Avis Richardson is getting very top-heavy as she is always toppling over on somebody's bed.

SOCIETY

By Lois Wetzel
Today we had several visitors and there were several donations which were very much appreciated by all.

This morning assembly was held and it was about companionship and friendship and many talks were given. Last night at campfire Mrs. Yohn gave an Uncle Remus story which was much enjoyed.

We also sang songs and tricks were done.

SPORTS

By Mary Hamilton
Harriet Utley and Frances Forsyth chose sides for last night's baseball game, Harriet's winning. Several of our visitors also took part in the game. Afterward we all played games.

What can be the matter? Again only three people took the dip this morning.

Our long postponed water carnival has taken place. First there was a series of water games, then came a free style swimming race for the advanced swimmers. Harriet Utley coming in first and gave Buckaroo a close second. Next followed the free style race for the beginners, Marian Schmidt first and Harry Lazier second. After that came the amusing cork race. Utley again taking the honors and Helen Russell second. Side stroke for form followed, Harriet Utley again taking first place and Forsyth second. Next came the floats, Avis Richardson taking the prize for form. In floats for endurance Frances Forsyth and Harriet Utley led. The face floats followed this, Harriet again taking honors. Free swimming for all took place after the carnival.

CLASSES

By Evelyn Kreim
We had our last lesson in photography work this morning. It was the tinting of a beautiful scene on the Fox River.

All of the girls are sure to miss Mr. Kellogg for he has given us wonderful instruction about everything that pertains to nature or pictures.

The swimming class had a lovely swim this morning, for the water was warmer than usual. The non-swimmers played games while the swimmers played with the water ball.

This afternoon the class will hold games and races.

In the hand craft class this morning we finished our last project, which was to make souvenirs of the camp, which were pieces of logs we sandpapered, shellacked and later we will glue little photos of the camp on them.

By Bernice Suter

We flopped along down the creek in our little canoe, and what should we come upon but some crazy girls' camp which we later learned was called the Y Girls' Builders' Camp. We decided to disembark and investigate the place. We had heard a lot about these camps from fellow frogs and had investigated one of them last summer.

We sneaked up on the camp and what should we see but Evelyn Neff trying to pitch horse-shoes with her sister Pearl. We had made their acquaintance last summer. Then seeing that they were here, we thought perhaps we would find some of our friends around, so we hopped further over into tent four into which we sneaked. Here we found Kathleen Cotter and Jane Buckaloo, fighting over a game of bridge. Well, as that wasn't very interesting, we hopped to the next tent, it being

In the hand craft class this morning we finished our last project, which was to make souvenirs of the camp, which were pieces of logs we sandpapered, shellacked and later we will glue little photos of the camp on them.

HUMOR

By Bernice Suter

We flopped along down the creek in our little canoe, and what should we come upon but some crazy girls' camp which we later learned was called the Y Girls' Builders' Camp. We decided to disembark and investigate the place. We had heard a lot about these camps from fellow frogs and had investigated one of them last summer.

We sneaked up on the camp and what should we see but Evelyn Neff trying to pitch horse-shoes with her sister Pearl. We had made their acquaintance last summer. Then seeing that they were here, we thought perhaps we would find some of our friends around, so we hopped further over into tent four into which we sneaked. Here we found Kathleen Cotter and Jane Buckaloo, fighting over a game of bridge. Well, as that wasn't very interesting, we hopped to the next tent, it being numbered five, where we heard someone say in I suppose a cross voice, "Jarlah Jones, please stop whistling"; then the answer "mumble, mumble."

Pete punched me and said, "Let's go," so out we hopped to investigate other matters. We hopped over to the platform where the water is kept and found Jarlah Jones over there, tugging at the lid of a water can. Then she called, "Oh Wilbur dear," and stopped suddenly. Later I heard Jarlah offer Betty Lazier who had been standing near, a dime to keep quiet. I didn't understand it at all. About that time Pete suggested that we move and deciding that home is the best place for us, we flipped hither.

DEFENSIVE BIDS—4
Imagine that the dealer has bid one club. You are the second player. What would you bid holding each of the hands which follow? The explanation in each instance accompanies the illustration.

Spades X X; hearts K X X X X; diamonds A X X; clubs X X X. Bid one heart. The hand contains 1 1/2 quick tricks properly distributed. 1 1/2 quick trick being in the five-card suit. Some experts will not bid on less than K 10 X X X, especially on a clear score.

Spades X X; hearts X X X; diamonds A J X X X; clubs J X X. Bid one heart. The hand does not contain approximately 1 1/2 quick tricks.

HOWARD ELLIOTT, RAILROAD MAN, DIED LAST EVE

Contributed Much to Success of Three Great Railroads

Dennis, Mass., July 9—(AP)—Howard Elliott, railroad executive, whose success in establishing public confidence contributed largely to prosperity of three great lines, is dead.

The former president of Northern Pacific and New York, New Haven and Hartford railroads and vice president of the Burlington, succumbed late last night to an attack of heart disease at the Cape Cod summer home of his daughter, Mrs. Frederick Wilson.

Under his guidance the Northern Pacific regained good will to the extent that under his regime it doubled its capacity and business. He made such a record that his services were Howard Elliott was said, too, that he was "a born leader".

The summer before he finished his civil engineering at Harvard, the 20-year-old youth, square-jawed, tall and wiry, started as a Burlington roadman in northwest Missouri. He returned to Harvard to complete his course, and after a few months surveying in Maryland became a clerk in the Burlington offices.

His rise was rapid. He went into the auditor's office, and in 1887 became general freight and passenger agent for the St. Louis, Keokuk and Northwestern line, a Burlington adjunct.

He had been vice president of the Burlington a year when Hill offered him the presidency of the Northern Pacific in 1903. Under his guidance that road doubled its capacity and business. Once Elliott directed personally the laying of 377 miles of road.

He had been president for a year of the Northern Securities company, holding corporation for the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Burlington, when that body was declared illegal and dissolved.

COOLIDGE, ROMAN EMPEROR.

A French historian, Jacques Bainville, is considerably perturbed by his perusal of the message President Coolidge sent to Herbert Hoover after the latter's nomination for the presidency.

It demonstrates, he says, that the United States is drunk with demon and power. The message, he adds, has the tone of a Roman emperor and not of a president of a republic.

That would be quite distressing if it were true. It is hard to see just how this country acts as if it were drunk with power, though. We may have made mistakes in our foreign dealings during the last decade, but if so it was only because we were dealing with various peoples who, caught in a jam of their own making, were trying to move heaven and earth to escape the consequences.

And anyone who can compare plain, unassuming Calvin Coolidge with a Roman emperor just naturally has a good imagination.

MISS EARTHART'S VICTORY.

Somehow, we can't help being a little bit glad that Miss Amelia Earhart was the first woman to cross the Atlantic by air.

She seems like such a wholesome sort of young young lady. She didn't go about courting publicity; indeed, she tried to slip away unseen, and only the unusually sharp eyes of a Boston newspaper reporter foiled her plans. She went about the job much as Lindbergh did; no fuss and feathers, no blare of trumpets. Furthermore, she looks like Lindy.

Stultz and Gordon, of course, deserve the highest sort of praise. They, too, seem like likable airmen. It is inevitable that Miss Earhart should get the greater part of the plaudits, and doubtless they figured on that in the beginning.

Her period of triumph is just beginning. She has earned it. More power to the girl!

INTERNATIONAL FAMILIARITY.

Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. national council, told a meeting of New York business men the other day that as nations are being brought closer together by improved transportation and communication they are reacting on each other "with increasing virulence" and are thereby drifting gradually closer toward war.

That is rather surprising. We used to assume that bringing the nations closer together would make them more neighborly; every advance in transportation and communication, such as the airplane and the radio, has been hailed as a force that would make for world peace. But Dr. Mott doesn't see it that way.

Maybe it's only natural that it should work out that way, at that. Individuals often remain more friendly if they don't see each other too often; it's usually easier to be friends with a man living a block away than with the next-door neighbor. Perhaps it's the same with nations.

We have decided not to vote for Hoover or Smith until we see which looks best in a ten-gallon hat.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

With both the zebras locked up tight, the hunter said, "Boys, you're all right! You helped me catch these fellows, and you did the job real well. Let's feed them now. 'Twill be some fun. I think you all had better run and gather up some grass while I get water from a well."

Then Scouty said, "Sure, if we can." And off the merry Tinties ran. Not far away they found some grass that grew away up tall. "Oh, this is dandy," Coppy cried and grabbed a big bunch to his side. "Let's each take one big armful. I don't think we'll need it all."

When they got back the hunting man said, "See, I've found a nice big can and filled it full of water. Now we'll have a little lunch. The grass you've gathered is just right. It soon will be far out of sight." The zebras ate and drank a lot. This pleased them all the bunch.

Then everyone heard Clowny shout, "Why can't we let the zebras out? I wonder if they'd run away. Let's run them loose and see." "Go right ahead," the hunter cried. "But watch them when they get outside. However, I don't think they'll run. They're friendly as can be."

The little zebras reached the ground, and both stood still and looked around. "Hurrah!" cried Scouty. "They're all right. They don't intend to run. Let's all hop on and have a race. This ground's a dandy running place. With two of us on each one it will be a lot of fun."

The hunter helped them climb aboard. "Get set, and go!" he loudly roared. The Tinties were very pleased, and all began to grin. The zebras trotted side by side, and gave the boys a pleasant ride, but they stayed right together so that neither one could win.

HEALTH & DIET ADVICE

Why The Fast Way to Health

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER BY ENCLOSED STAMPED ADDRESS ENVELOPE FOR REPLY

Dr. McCoy, Los Angeles specialist, come into vogue recently which uses large quantities of bicarbonate of soda. As this is an alkaline, it makes the blood temporarily alkaline and will usually abort a cold. I never prescribe this method unless the patient has some important engagement, as on the stage, where a cold would be an impediment. While it does not free the blood of the toxins which cause the catarrh in the first place, and it is possible that such a large amount of inorganic mineral may be harmful to the body.

In all cases of catarrhal trouble or colds, one will notice digestive disturbances and liver congestion. A person with a catarrhal tendency who allows himself to become enervated or tired out will in all probability develop a cold. Stuffing a cold with food is wrong. One who stuffs a cold is very apt to develop some serious fever disease. Benjamin Franklin states this tersely in the following words, "Stuff a cold and starve a fever." He was not giving advice, but was simply stating the fact that if you eat too much while having a cold, you will have to starve out the resultant fever.

The most satisfactory method of alkalizing the blood and improving the digestion is to use a diet of oranges or their juices from ten days to two weeks, using enemas of plain warm water during that time. One should follow this fast with the use of a well balanced diet, avoiding the use of any large amount of sugar, fat or starch. The body is usually quick to respond to the right treatment. It has an inherent power of self healing if it is only given the opportunity. Avoid sickness as much as possible by living right, but if it does come, the shortest and

HEAT FATALITIES

Every hot season brings a toll of deaths from heat exhaustion and sunstroke. This occurs when the individual has not taken the proper precautions or made changes in diet and clothing which are necessitated by the change in temperature. Heat exhaustion develops from inability of the body to adapt itself to a rapid rise of temperature. This occurs most frequently when the air is very humid or the clothing is too heavy, which prevents a rapid evaporation of perspiration. By sensible changes in our diet and clothing, we can avoid much of the unpleasantness of the hot weather.

In one of the middle western cities I saw a number of cases of heat prostration in individuals soon after they emerged from a very cool theater into the sweltering external heat. Heat stroke may occur even when one is not in the sun. It comes on slowly and leaves the surface of the body cool and the temperature sometimes subnormal. These individuals always have a sluggish circulation. It is well to place them on a fruit fast for several days, with tepid or warm shower baths, hot enemas, deep breathing exercises and dry friction baths.

A sunstroke differs from heat exhaustion in that it is caused by a congestion of the blood to the head. The effect is sometimes immediate unconsciousness, and is often produced by not wearing a hat while in the direct rays of the hot sun. Children, light complexioned people, and those under the influence of alcohol, are especially susceptible. Sometimes death occurs almost immediately. Where this does not occur, there are sometimes serious after effects, such as a partial paralysis of brain or legs, dizziness, fever, and complete prostration. The individuals who do recover are peculiarly susceptible to heat or the sun for a long time after.

Because of the profound shock which occurs with this disorder, one must use extreme care in the treatment. Ice packs to the neck will cool the blood in the head and reduce the pressure in the brain. I do not recommend the ice cold enemas that are usually given to lower the temperature. I am of the opinion that it is more important to secure a thorough cleansing, and warm water is more valuable for this purpose. The cooling may be accompanied by sponging the skin with ice water or using cold shower baths.

The fever of sunstroke sometimes becomes very high, from 105 degrees upward. One who is recovering from a sunstroke must conserve his vitality by as much sleep and rest as possible. The sunburn is very painful, it hardly even is serious enough to cause death, although this has occurred in several instances. Much relief may be had by using cool showers or ice water compresses whenever the pain is severe. The skin should be covered with an alkaline oil, such as caron-oil, which is a mixture of lime water and linseed oil. This is obtainable at any drug store, and will keep out the air and at the same time neutralize some of the acid products of the decomposing skin. You should time yourself when in the direct sunlight, because the burn may occur even though the skin does not become hot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: Reader writes: "Am reading your articles with much interest. In speaking of fasting, do you believe a person having mental work should do with absolutely no food for three days, or should some liquid such as fruit juice be taken if one keeps at work?"

ANSWER: I usually recommend a fruit fast rather than a plain water fast. It seems that patients eliminate better while taking the fruit juices. Of course, there is some stimulation from the fruit sugar which makes it easier for one to keep on with his work while taking the fast.

QUESTION: M. J. writes: "When I eat a large amount of lettuce it makes me sleepy. Why is this so?"

ANSWER: Lettuce contains a certain hypnotic agent called hyoscyamine, and when this vegetable is used in great quantity it does produce drowsiness to a certain degree which causes a slowing up of the digestive process. Those whose digestive powers are not strong should use lettuce in small quantities, as these ill effects are not at all pronounced if lettuce is used in only a moderate amount.

QUESTION: Rose asks: "Will you kindly publish the symptoms of tapeworm and what to do?"

ANSWER: There are no definite

MARYE and "MOM" Their Letters

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

Dear Marye:

You are indeed a mercurial person—in one letter you extol the joys of having a job, and in the next you say you give it up to have a pleasant summer at the seashore.

Alan, I think, managed the whole matter very successfully. There is a certain perversity in all of us which makes us want to act on our own initiative, rather than accept the same suggestion from another.

When you were little I learned that you quite often would take a sensible course of your own accord, but that when I pointed out to you, you would want to do just the opposite thing.

It is a great relief to me to have you out of Madame Elise's shop. I much prefer to think of you swimming, playing tennis, and leading the active, out-of-door life you always liked. I never fancied you in the artificial atmosphere of a smart shop.

I just can't explain why, except that I know so many young women who have no interest in life but clothes, and who can talk nothing else or think of nothing else. And they seem to me a most discontented and uninteresting lot, and seem so to defeat their own aims.

To me the reason you always looked well in your clothes was because you never seemed to be thinking about them. They never seemed so noticeable as your clean cut features and your bright eyes and smooth skin.

There are plenty of girls who need jobs who can make a profession of clothes. I think you should leave the field to them. If you want to fill your life, it should be, I think with something decidedly more cultural and worth while than just clothes. I do hope this winter you will take up your music again, and study French.

And Marye, dear, do listen to your mother, and not indulge in any silly flirtation with this Mr. Shelton, of whom you wrote. If fate had anything in mind, in your case, it might have been to give you an opportunity to show that you are really becoming more and more thoughtful.

I don't approve at all of a man striking up an acquaintance with a girl, the way he did with you, and I hope you will make him understand that you have no further interest in him.

After all, thrills are not worth the hazards you take for them. And the secure happiness you have, and the devotion of a good man like Alan, is not to be lightly considered. Please use your head.

Lovingly,

MOM.

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT
FOLLOWS TELEPHONE

America owes its industrial and social growth large—000,000 population, has only half as many telephones as the City of Minneapolis.

Our national total of 18,000,000 telephones is more than there are in all other countries combined.

Each day 72,000,000 telephones calls are completed in the United States. The tremendous effect of this instant intercommunication can be easily seen.

In imagination look back fifty years; it seems impossible that business could exist and flourish with the communication disadvantages the pioneer had to meet. The telephone has changed all that, and our leadership over other nations has increased, seemingly, in direct ratio to our telephone development.

PADDOCK MAY BE LOST TO YANKS' OLYMPIC OUTFIT

Eleventh Hour Charge of Professionalism to be Investigated

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, July 9.—(AP)—Charged with professionalizing himself in a "personal appearance" motion picture tour, Charley Paddock today faced the imminent prospect of losing his place on the 1928 American Olympic track and field team and the chance to seek world sprint honors for the third time in eight years.

The sudden and eleventh-hour demand by the Olympic authorities for a show-down on Paddock's status came as a climax to selection of the American team and furnished a sensational prelude to its departure Wednesday for Amsterdam.

Paddock met one of the severest tests of his career Saturday when he staged a sensational come-back to qualify for the team in the 200-meter dash, finishing second to Charley Borah, after being shut out the day before in the 100 meters. But the blond California veteran, long a storm-center of athletics, faces an even more exacting test of eligibility before he can earn the unquestioned right to represent Uncle Sam at Amsterdam.

Up to A. A. A. Board
The court which held "Good-Time-Charley's" fate in its hands today was the registration committee of the Amateur Athletic Union.

A special meeting is scheduled today, to decide whether Paddock has violated the letter or spirit of the amateur code by making public appearances and giving talks in connection with an athletic film in various theaters. If he is cleared, Paddock will sail with the team this Wednesday. Otherwise his place will be taken by Roland Locke of the New York A. C., former University of Nebraska star, who was fifth in the 200 meter final Saturday at Cambridge.

If no decision is reached by Wednesday both Paddock and Locke will be taken along, the expectation being that the verdict will be received by radio before the final entries are to be filed on July 19. The delay in a final decision is anticipated by Chairman Dillie I. Ferris because the members of his committee are scattered throughout the country and difficult to reach, even with a telegraph pole.

It would be a heart-breaking blow to Paddock to be barred from the team. The Californian has scored more points for Uncle Sam in his two previous Olympic trips than any other American sprinter.

Will be Young Team
With or without Paddock, however, the squad of 82 track and field stars, selected as a result of a record-smashing series of final tests, is hailed as the youngest as well as the most brilliant ever gathered together in quest of world athletic supremacy.

Altogether, 288 athletes, outside of coaches, trainers and officials, are booked to leave on the President Roosevelt Wednesday at noon on an expedition costing about $350,000.

The California championship crew and other outfits in the expedition will have their share of attention but it is the track and field array that is most representative of the entire nation, comprising as it does 33 from the east, 22 each from the far west and middle west and five from the south.

The chief weaknesses of the team are in such field events as the javelin, hammer throw, hop, step and jump, as well as the decathlon and distance races.

The predominance of youthful talent, especially from college ranks, is a noteworthy feature of the team although there are enough veterans here and there to provide the necessary balance, among such champions as Hahn in the 800 and 1500 meter races, Hal Osborn in the high jump, Morgan Taylor in the 400 meter hurdles, Dehart Hubbard in the broad jump, Jackson Scholz and Paddock or Locke in the sprints and Bud Houser in the discus.

H. S. Boy Sprinter
But youth holds sway. The new sprint hero is Frank Wyckoff, 19-year-old Glendale, Cal. schoolboy. Osborn may have to yield his high jump crown to Bob King or Charley McGinnis, the wonderful little Wisconsin athlete who also can pole-vault with the best of them. Hubbard already has yielded his world's broad jump record to a collegian, Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech, whose leap of 25 feet, 11 1/8 inches stood out as one of the greatest achievements of the final trials.

Among the nine sprinters selected Wyckoff, Charley Borah, a junior at Southern California, and Claude Bracey, 19-year-old Rice Institute sophomore, are outstanding, though they will be hard pressed by such veterans as Scholz, Locke or Paddock. Henry Russell and Bob McAllister, New York's erstwhile "Flying Cop," who staged one of the biggest come-backs of the year to make sure of a berth on the team. American Stars in Olympic Trials

Among the first of the women swimming stars to appear on the Olympic horizon are the three pictured above, who won places on the American team at the try-outs at Rockaway Beach, Long Island. Upper left is Miss Eleanor Garratti, of San Rafael, Cal., who established a new world record in the 100-meter free style event. The diver is Miss Helen Meany, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, who placed first in springboard competition. Lower right is Miss Agnes Geraghty, Women's Swimming Association. She chopped nine seconds from her own American record in the 220-yard breast stroke.

THE CALL OF THE OUTDOORS

THE GREAT PIKE

The Great Pike, first cousin to the muskie, is so rapidly gaining favor among anglers that he is seriously threatening the throne of the muskie himself.

It is hard to believe that only a few years ago he was not even classed as a game fish in northern waters. A few years ago he and the pickerel, another member of the pike family, whose good qualities are becoming recognized, were classed as purely predatory fishes that should not be allowed to infest the lakes.

Fishing for great pike is a delightful sport. These fish range in size from five pounds up to thirty or more, and it is not out of the ordinary for several fish averaging around fifteen pounds to be taken in a day in many of our northern lakes.

The great pike, unlike the muskie, likes clear cold water, and he delights in rocky shores and in the foaming rapids of the northern rivers. He will hit almost any kind of moving lure, and he always strikes it viciously. His fight continues up to the moment of capture and he frequently breaks water. His battle barely lacks the viciousness of the muskie.

A favorite trick of the pike is to follow the lure almost to the boat, then slam it with a speed that often so nonpluses the angler, who had given up hope of a successful cast, that he comes to life only when the pike has stripped most of the line from his reel. Sometimes great pike postpone their attack on the lure so long that they have to leap for it as it is being lifted from the water by the fisherman, and these fish have been known to miss the lure altogether in one of these last minute rushes, and to land squarely in the boat!

Any angler, regardless of his experience, may confidently go out after great pike knowing that if there are any in the lake he is in for a good day's sport.

NEW PULP MILLS

Campbell, N. B. (AP)—J. B. M. Baxter, premier of New Brunswick, has announced plans for the expansion of the pulp and paper industry within the next few years involving an expenditure of $30,000,000 to $40,000,000. Three new mills will be erected in the northern part of the province.

MAKE OWN CARS

Sydney — (AP)—Australians have decided they can make their own automobiles. This smallest continent has been entirely dependent upon the foreign market for its cars, but a factory with a capacity of 50 a week will begin operations before 1929. The first cars will resemble the American medium-priced machines.

TINY AUTO MAKES DEBUT

London — (AP)—A new ultra light automobile with a nine horsepower motor, speed of more than 50 miles an hour and mileage better than 45 miles on a gallon, has been put on the British market. It sells at $575, the lowest price of any vehicle of its kind in Great Britain. Production will be 200 to 300 cars a week, a large output for a British factory.

ARMY TRUCKS STILL ROLL

Paris — (AP)—Nearly half the 32,500 American army trucks and ambulances left in France are still in service, thanks to the French dealers in automobile parts, who had the foresight to buy up the entire spare parts depots at the end of the war. The continued performance of these machines has done much to establish the good reputation American trucks now hold in France.

LABOR TROUBLES INCREASE

Berlin — (AP)—Wage disagreements principally in the textile, mining and tobacco industries, caused an increase in labor troubles in Germany last year. There were also disagreements about working time in the machinery and ceramic industries. Days lost by strikes totaled 2,442,694 compared with 894,606 in 1926. Almost as many days were lost by lockouts.

FORCED TO REFRIGERATE

Glasgow — (AP)—Scots are looking over the refrigerating machinery market in preparation for the time when a new regulation prohibiting preservatives in food will become effective. Refrigerating facilities now are scant. Completion of the program for wider distribution of electricity is expected to increase the market for electric refrigerators.

Did You Ever Stop to Think?

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK
By Edson R. Jaffe

Curtis A. Hodges, general manager and managing editor of the Indianapolis News, says:
That Elias Howe died in poverty because, though he had the inventive genius to create the sewing machine, he did not have the ability or the opportunity to market it. He had to wait until one woman bought and told another, and such primitive and painfully slow word-of-mouth advertising could never build the market his invention deserved.

And the real tragedy of his failure was that for another generation women had to wear out their eyes, impair their health and waste countless hours at sewing by hand, when the machine they had waited for since the beginning of time had already been invented for them.

As soon as an invention is perfected, it is made known and made available in every town and hamlet, every city and on every farm in the land—at once—through advertising. Look at radio—the automobile—the vacuum cleaner—the electric refrigerator.

Advertising is a public utility. It is the are of making known. It is mighty in the public service. It conquers time, it banishes distance, it saves incalculable treasure, it speeds production and prosperity, creates national distribution, makes life richer and better—and it pays for itself by reducing the cost of making, distributing and selling goods.

Paris — (AP)—Borrowing umbrellas has been reduced to a science.

A big motion picture house recently put in a stock for the convenience of spectators who frequently get caught in the rain.

Umbrellas may be had by depositing $1.40, which is returned when the umbrella is returned. Often, however, the umbrellas are not brought back so those who fail to return them simply have bought umbrellas at a reasonable price when they needed them badly.

SIMPLER BALLOT NEXT NOVEMBER DUE TO NEW LAW

Names of Presidential Electors Will Not Appear On Ballot

When A. Smith and Herbert Hoover battle it out for presidential honors at the November election voters of Illinois should learn in short which candidate has carried the State of Illinois because of the new law regarding the presidential ballots. Voters when they go to the polls to vote in the presidential election this fall will find a much simpler ballot than they ever saw before. Where formerly it was necessary to vote for all of the presidential electors of either the democratic or republican party, voters will find their ballots this year only carrying the names of the presidential and vice presidential candidates, and ballots will be cast directly for them.

Under the new system each of the Hoover and Smith electors will be given the same number of votes as were cast for the candidate for whom they stand. As a result, none of the electors will have preference of local places and all will be registered with the same number of votes as cast for the candidate.

Aids Tabulations

The new ballot was made possible by an act of the state legislature and this will be the first presidential election year of its operation in this state, although other states have had this system for some time past.

While the new ballot will make voting easier, probably its greatest advantage will be the simplicity of tabulating the election returns. Where formerly it was necessary to tabulate the vote for each of the presidential electors to learn how many votes were cast for a candidate it will now only be necessary to tabulate one return. There will be only three parties listed on the official ballots they being Democrat, Republican and Independent Republican. The law provides that a political party must poll at least 2 per cent of the vote to remain on the ballot and only these three qualified.

New French Paper Money Like Ours

Paris — (AP)—Really substantial greenbacks, fresh and crinkly, may make their appearance in France before the end of this year.

Labeled in francs, of course, instead of dollars, they will be a part of the Poincare government's reform of the French monetary system. For several months the experts of the "Monnaie," as the French mint is known, have been studying the American system of coinage. Their principal objection to the style of American bills has been that it does not lend itself sufficiently to artistic treatment.

Recent calculations, however, have shown that the life of the present flimsy French notes is less than five years and the economy of heavier silk-fibre parchment is being understood. Prices have been asked from firms in the United States and Germany, and a technical commission for working out the details of the reform is to be appointed within a few weeks.

The change will be a welcome one for tourists, as it will carry with it the abolishing of the excessively large 500 and 1,000 franc notes which were instituted when those in the rural districts, unable in most cases to read or write, gauged a bank note by its size.

PURE OXYGEN RELIEVES RESPIRATORY DISEASES

Buffalo, N. Y. — (AP)—Successful use of pure oxygen in treatment of pneumonia, asthma, hay fever and several other diseases is described in the current issue of the Bulletin of the Erie County Medical Society and the Buffalo Academy of Medicine.

Dr. John H. Evans, of Buffalo, reports that patients for whom hope had been abandoned were restored to health by inhalations of pure oxygen for hours at a time. In 35 cases of pneumonia, where high concentrations of oxygen were administered for 48 hours, all of the patients recovered.

Among other diseases relieved by this method were pernicious anemia, hyperthyroidism, arthritis, high and low blood pressure, diabetes, post-operative anoxemia, Parkinson's disease and cardiac decomposition.

"As the administration of 60 to 100 percent oxygen has been considered dangerous," Dr. Evans says, "no attempt heretofore has been made to find out the therapeutic value of these high concentrations."

This theory, he explains, was based on the fatal effect of oxygen on small animals and took no account of a lack of normal oxygen content in the body of a human patient suffering from any one of the diseases he has successfully treated.

FRENCH RAILROADS

Paris — (AP)—Railroads no longer enjoy the monopoly of land transportation in France, and railroad companies admit that it is hopeless to try to fight the competition of the automobile. Instead they are going into the business themselves by forming subsidiary companies to run auxiliary automobile services.

The Southern company, realizing that time saving is the only advantage enjoyed by the railroad, is organizing facilities for transport of automobiles by fast freight at reduced rates, so that motorists on vacation at resorts can have the use of their cars without the trouble and delay of driving them down from Paris.

SEN. CHAMBERLAIN DIED TODAY AFTER LONG SICKNESS

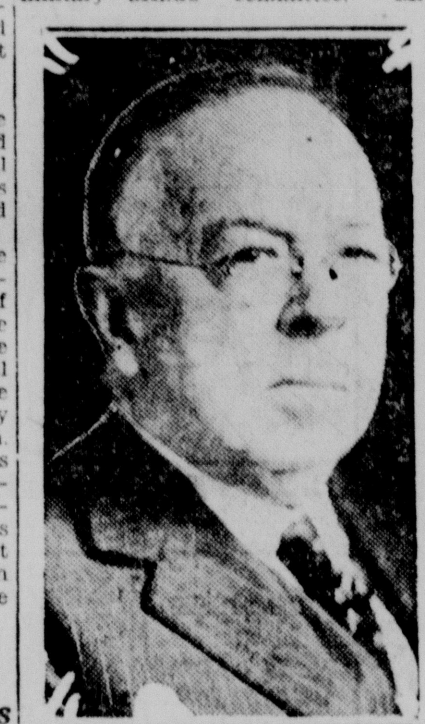

Former Senator from Oregon Passed Away in Washington Home

Washington, July 9.—(AP)—Former United States Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, died at his apartments in the Wardman Park hotel early today, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Chamberlain, to whom he was married two years ago, and his daughter, Mrs. George F. Blain, of Norfolk, Va., were at his bedside.

Funeral arrangements for the former senator and member of the United States shipping board were not made pending arrival of members of his family.

The former senator surprised his friends in Washington in July 1926 when he quietly went to Norfolk and was married to Mrs. Carolyn B. Shelton, who had been clerk to the senate military affairs committee. Mr.

CHAMBERLAIN at the time gave his age as 72 and his bride gave hers as 49.

George Earle Chamberlain reached the peak of his public life when he was called upon to head the work of the Senate military committee during the trying days of the world war.

As chairman of that committee, which framed legislation staggering to the imagination of a nation inured to the pursuits of peace, he probably was as close as any man to the inner workings of the organization which guided America victoriously through the struggle.

For Draft Act

The draft act, which brought its millions of men into the ranks, was the one factor looked upon by Senator Chamberlain as assuring the winning of the war. Before its introduction, he had offered a compulsory service bill, and throughout the war and afterward he contended that his own measure, which threw the question open to debate, was responsible for the success of the legislation finally enacted. His own idea, he said, came from an almost forgotten document in the War Department archives written by Major General Emory Upton, a civil war commander.

After taking on an amount of work during the war that would have exhausted a man of less physical endurance, Senator Chamberlain crossed swords with President Wilson, leader of his own party, in 1918 when he publicly charged that the War Department had ceased to function. An open letter from President Wilson followed and the controversy was carried to the floor of the Senate where the Oregon senator delivered a three hours' speech in support of his position.

One of the measures in which Senator Chamberlain took pride was that revising the Articles of War. This legislation, he contended, eliminated the "Prussian idea of absolute power of the men at the top" and liberalized and democratized the articles.

The National Defense Act of 1916, in the preparation of which he was identified, was urged by him as the basis for the expanded army in the war.

In the conduct of the war, Senator Chamberlain was one of the most vigorous opponents to the billeting of American troops with those of their associate nations, although he supported the idea of a united command.

Born in Mississippi
Senator Chamberlain was born in a plantation near Natchez, Miss., January 1, 1854. He attended school there until 1870, when he became a clerk in a general merchandise store. Graduating from Washington and Lee University in 1876, he moved to Linh county, Oregon, where after teaching school and practicing law for a few years, he entered upon the political career which was to accord him the state's highest honors.

He was elected as member of the legislature, district attorney, state attorney general and governor before being elevated to the Senate in 1909 and reelected in 1914. He served two terms as governor.

On retiring from the Senate, Mr. Chamberlain was appointed by President Harding as a member of the Shipping Board, where he served for two years. He then resumed the practice of law at Portland and Washington, and among the important cases which he argued was that before the Supreme Court involving the Oregon school law, held unconstitutional. He represented the state in that case.

Mr. Chamberlain was married to Eallie Newman Welch, who died in May, 1925. They had six children.

ISOLATION OF CHAIN STORES NOW DISCARDED

Are Beginning Now to Take Part in Com- munity Affairs

BY FRED HIGH

"Some chain store systems are short-sighted. This is not merely an admission—it's a charge," says Godfrey M. Lebar, in an editorial in the Chain Store Age.

"An example of the short-sightedness we have particularly in mind," says Editor Lebar, "is furnished by the refusal of certain chains to take an active part in the affairs of communities in which they operate stores. That this narrow-minded policy is not typical of the best chains is undoubtedly true, but that it should exist at all among the bigger concerns is both surprising and deplorable."

This short-sightedness was touched upon in a recent report of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries. This report says that non-resident operators are lacking in civic vision and have no interest in the communities in which they operate. It goes on to say that the local Chambers of Commerce throughout the United States are confronted today by an ever increasing number of "non-resident operators who desire nothing from the local community except patronage and offer only cut-price merchandise in return."

A survey made in 56 New England cities by the New England Association of Commercial Executives to ascertain to what extent the chain stores were supporting the local Chamber of Commerce, revealed the following:

That S. S. Kresge Co. held Chamber of Commerce memberships in 25 of the 26 cities in which it had stores, a percentage of 96. Other high percentages of membership were those of the W. T. Grant Co. with 85 percent, the Louis K. Liggett Co. with 84 percent, the J. C. Penney Co. with 83 percent, the Walkover Store Co. with 75 percent. Other percentages not so good, the Mohican Co. with 60 percent, the Waldorf System with 59 percent, the F. W. Woolworth Co. with 43 percent, the United Cigar Stores Co. with 36 percent, D. A. Schulte with 31 percent and the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. with 21 percent. The Ginter Co. and O'Keefe's grocery chains, had no association affiliations.

According to this report of the New England Association of Commercial Secretaries, the reasons most generally advanced by the chains which had no local association affiliations, were as follows:

(1) They contribute in the larger cities where they have their home office.

(2) If they belonged in any one city, they would have to belong in all cities, and this would involve too great an expense.

(3) Their local managers are not competent to represent them in community affairs.

(4) They wish their employees to devote their entire attention to the interests of the company.

(5) Part of the blame for non-participation might be laid to local managers, who, working on salary and percentage basis, are unwilling to use their money necessary to belong to the Chamber out of the fund which is set aside by several of these chains for advertising and "donations."

Commenting on the above reasons for non-participation in local affairs, the Chain Store Age editorially says: "None of the five reasons for non-participation above enumerated appears to us to have the slightest foundation."

The fact that, in some cases, store managers may not be competent to represent the company can easily be met by taking out the membership in the name of the company and having either the district superintendent or a special public relations representative participate in the association's work.

"Contributing in the city where the chain's headquarters is located is not enough. Developing the home city won't do any good for the communities where the stores are located."

"The claim that store employees can't participate because they are expected to devote their entire attention to the interests of the company is fallacious. The welfare of the community and the interest of the company are inseparably connected."

"The claim that it would cost too much to take part in the activities of all the communities in which a chain operates has nothing to support it. As a matter of fact such an attitude proceeds upon the mistaken idea that such contributions are unproductive expenses, whereas in fact they should be regarded as an investment—an investment in good will."

"Finally, the contention that are store-managers are responsible for the chain's failure to participate is a clear admission of mismanagement, entirely inconsistent with the chain's admitted efficiency."

"If it is sound policy for chains to participate in local activities, it is sound policy for them to do so in every city in which they operate, no matter what the total cost may be, and irrespective of the inability or unwillingness of the store-managers to represent them."

"The chains can usually find a way to accomplish anything worth doing. In our opinion, supporting the communities which support them is something no chain can afford to neglect."

When Montgomery Ward & Co. began to establish its retail stores, the mail order company has set out to establish retail stores in 1500 towns of approximately 5,000 population. It went about the preliminary work secretly. It made leases, altered interiors, installed the fixtures and the merchandise, all under a name that apparently had no connection with Montgomery Ward & Co.

But today, according to George B. Everett, president of Montgomery Ward & Co., business men generally realize that business which formerly went to nearby rival towns, is now being attracted to the towns where the Montgomery Ward & Co. chain stores are located, the trading radius being from thirty to fifty miles. Mr. Everett thinks that all stores, whether chain or independent, must contribute a great deal to the welfare of the community of which they are a part. He says of the policy of Montgomery Ward & Co. for its chain stores, "there is hardly any local activity that is not sponsored and supported by the chain store in proportion to the size of the unit and the number of persons employed. We endeavor to become a part of the community."

This change of policy on the part of Montgomery Ward & Co. has revolutionized the attitudes and actions of the communities where Montgomery Ward & Co. now enters. Instead of going under cover, they are welcomed by the organized business forces of the community.

President Everett says: "We now receive a welcome that has been very gratifying to us; local business men have gone to unusual lengths to provide proper quarters for us; and, as far as we can determine, we are now considered an asset to the community."

JAPAN SPENDS $500,000 TO REPAIR GODDESS' TEMPLE

Tokyo—(AP)—With impressive ceremonies, the golden image of Kwannon, goddess of mercy, has been removed from the old Asakusa Kwannon temple to a temporary building where it will abide until the old temple is repaired.
Twenty-four priests and 60 children, garbed in gorgeous kimonos embroidered with rich Buddhist ornaments, escorted the image in a solemn procession, the priests chanting the sutra to the accompaniment of religious music. Behind the priests and the children there followed several thousand worshippers of the golden goddess.

The Kwanon image is said to have been discovered by three fishermen more than 1,200 years ago when they were hauling in their nets. It was placed in a small shrine and later in a temple which was destroyed by fire. The present Kwanon Temple was built by the third Tokugawa Shogun in 1648-1651. The temple was badly damaged during the earthquake of 1923 and half a million dollars will be expended in repairing it.
Persons from all over Japan make pilgrimages to Tokyo to petition the mercies of the goddess. Copper coins offered by visitors to the temple total about $65,000 annually. The temple operates a hospital, schools and various organizations for young people.

G. O. P. LEADERS TO MAKE THEIR FIGHT IN EASTERN STATES

Believe the West Will Stay Republican This Fall

Washington, July 9.—(AP)—Republican campaign plans are concentrating on the east and it appears likely that Herbert Hoover himself will return to Washington in the fall to be near headquarters here in the final drive.

Another front porch campaign is in the making although in the case of Mr. Hoover it seems a more appropriate name for his prospective battle would be a back yard campaign. The spacious residence of the secretary on R Street here has a very insignificant front porch but the home has a commodious back yard.

The residence is just a few houses away from the place where Woodrow Wilson, the last Democratic president, spent his last days and died.

But before he decides on his plans for the fall, Mr. Hoover must first week arrange definitely for his departure for Palo Alto, Cal., where he will be officially notified of his nomination early next month.

Say Fight Is In East.
Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, in charge of Republican publicity, is responsible for the statement that the party leaders believe the east to be the battle ground of the campaign with confidence on their part that the west will stay Republican.

An eastern advisory council has been organized, with Senator Moses of New Hampshire, at its head, which will dictate policies for the drive in the Atlantic coast states.

NEW YORK NIGHT CLUBS DENOUNCED AS MORAL MENACE

Committee of Fourteen Publishes Report on
All Night Clubs

New York, July 9.—(AP)—Night clubs of New York are denounced as a menace to morality in the annual report of the committee of fourteen made public today. The night club hostess is termed the American counterpart of the Gensha girl. Because of such clubs, speakeasies and dance halls the committee regards vice conditions in New York as the worst in 20 years.

The committee formed in 1905 to combat commercialized vice is a civilian organization. Among its supporters are many well known New Yorkers. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was the heaviest contributor in the year ending Dec. 1, giving $3000.

The most serious aspect of the situation, the committee finds, is the class of young men and women attracted to night clubs and speakeasies, a class who never would have visited the old places of commercialized vice.

Apparently Respectable
"Some of these clubs are cloaked with an apparent respectability which is likely to throw the unsophis-ticated off their guard."

Says the report, "They provide for the young man and woman the lure of music, entertainment and dancing, coupled with alcohol and a free and easy atmosphere—and they are open all night."

The night club hostess, the committee says, is the American counterpart of the Japanese Gensha girl, and is the successor of the old time ruffles who worked in bars on a commission basis many years ago.

"She is employed for the main purpose of increasing the sales of liquor, other drinks and food; incidentally she is to provide entertainment for the men customers. Her sex appeal largely accounts for her success."

Of 157 night clubs and speakeasies investigated during 1927 the committee found only six "respectable" with no "suspicious" but no evidence obtained. In 13 others girls were not admitted.

PER CAPITA WEALTH
OF JAPAN INCREASES
Tokyo—(AP)—The latest cabinet bureau statistics relating to Japan's national wealth, the taking of which started in 1924, disclose a valuation of approximately 102,300,000,000 yen (the yen is valued at less than 50 cents). This gives per capita wealth of 1,731 yen.

The national wealth is shown to have increased about 70,000,000,000 yen since 1913. At that time the per capita wealth was estimated at 606 yen. The biggest items of the recent estimates are land, valued at some 33,000,000,000 yen, and buildings, valued at around 16,000,000,000 yen.

Houck, Aurora, Ill., and Herman William, Denver, Va. Houck was struck for restoration of eight clerestory windows in Chartres Cathedral.

LOVE FOR TWO

THIS HAS HAPPENED

BERTIE LOU WARD, on the eve of her wedding to ROD HIL-LYER, feels a premonition of trouble when she receives a dangerous paper, knife from LILA MARSH, who has turned Rod down because he is not wealthy.
But she courageously resolves not to be jealous of Rod's past love affair since his future is in her keeping.

Bertie Lou receives a second blow to her pride when she accidentally overhears one bridesmaid ask another if she thought the bride liked being second choice. The pain in her heart lingers until Rod whispers "My wife" with a world of adoration in his eyes.

They spend an ideal honeymoon in a mountain resort, and Bertie Lou almost forgets the shadow cast by the predatory ex-sweetheart until they return and find Lila acting as dictator in their apartment on the ground that she knows what Rod likes.
Both the bride and her mother resent Lila's efforts to annoy, and MRS. WARD advises Bertie Lou to try to avoid meeting her in the future.

Entertainment and the demands of hospitality cripple their budget and the newlyweds decide they will have to retrench. Then they are invited to the hotel to dine with the FRASERS, from New York, and Bertie Lou is delighted when TOM FRASER offers Rod a position in the city.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

ROD looked helplessly over at Bertie Lou. Her eyes were filled with an eagerness he could not mistake. Still, he hardly knew what to say. The proposition had been shot at him with disconcerting suddenness, and life didn't move that way in Wayville. He supposed Tom had acquired the manner in New York.

"You sure are speedy in the big city, aren't you?" he said, seeking time. Then it occurred to him that he'd have to talk the matter over with Bertie Lou in private before he gave Tom an answer.

"That's how we get there," Tom snapped back at him. "Suppose we go up to our rooms after dinner and I'll tell you what's on my mind while the girls and Stiles have a game of bridge."

That suited Molly; that is, with certain modifications. She decided to show Bertie Lou and Lila her French underwear instead of mud-dling through with the rules on "normal expectancy" and "quick tricks." The men could have the sitting room.

The dinner was finished in an air of subdued excitement. Bertie Lou could hardly sit still in her chair. But Rod, she knew, was undecided. She could see doubt in his face. She felt a little like shaking him. Couldn't he see what a wonderful opportunity Tom was offering him?

Lila sat in silence. The food tasted of ashes. She'd never been quite so sorry before that she'd turned Rod down.

New York! Her father flatly refused to support her if she went to the city. And Lila preferred not to tell. But some day she'd meet a man . . . a traveling salesman probably, who would take her away to the land of skyscrapers. It was a little galling, though, to have the one man she'd least expected to make the grade setting there ahead of her, and taking another girl with him.

But then, on second thought,
what would Rod amount to in New York? Tom couldn't have so much to offer him. Lila perked up. Let him go. And she'd come along al-later with her moneybags, whoever he might be, and show them she hadn't been left at the post.

She was unusually gay the rest of the evening. Which, puzzled Bertie Lou, who was not accustomed to exaggerated flights of fancy.

SERBIAN KING COMPLETES CHURCH FATHER STARTED

Belgrade.—(AP)—King Alexander is resting for a while on his estate at Topola, the historic village where his ancestor Black George, the pig dealer who became a prince, lived and whence he led the movement which finally freed Serbia from Turks and laid the foundations on which the present union of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes was built.

The king is supervising the work of completing the church there which King Peter, his father, began to build. It is a fine structure in Byzantine style, built of pure white marble and set nobly on the crest of a ridge of hills. Its interior is being decorated with marvellous frescoes in mosaic, which recall in their design and coloring the paintings in the old Serbian monasteries of Macedonia, which are said to be among the finest examples of Byzantine art in existence.

From Topola the king makes visits in his car to the village and towns of Shumadia, where he delights to mix with his peasant people.

Museum For Sale
Brookline, Mass.—Desmond Fitzgerald's dream of establishing an art center in this town has faded. A
"For Sale" sign adorns the museum
the millionaire engineer built in 1913.
Art objects for which he spent $1,000,000 were sold after he died in 1925.

Last Lamplighter Quits

"But my future here looks pretty good," Rod told him. "I hope to have a junior partnership with Meeks and Son some day."

Molly spread out her fiery on the bed, and while her guests exclaimed over it and admired her taste until she was perfectly satisfied Tom went into the details of his offer to Rod. Mr. Stiles had excused himself.

The salary was, of course, better than he was receiving at present.
Rod was impressed by it. There was some small doubt of his ability to take over the duties of accountant in Fraser's firm, but Tom thought he could work into it all right. Tom was a real friend.
He'd always liked Rod and wanted to give him a chance.

"But my future here looks pretty good," Rod told him. "I hope to have a junior partnership with Meeks and Son some day—or go into business for myself—certified accountant."

"Hm, in Wayville? Well, suppose that turns out to be what you really want to do, won't you be better off with a little city experience? A fellow doesn't know life until he's shaken the home soil off his shoes."

"Anyway it's time of you to make me tip off," Rod evaded. "I appreciate it, Tom. Let me think it over a while, will you?"

"I'm going back to New York day after tomorrow," Tom replied.
"Have to give me an answer before I leave. The man in the job now quits on the first; if you turn it down I'll have to promote Mark-son. He'll be under you if you accept. Don't be afraid of it, Rod.
You'll make good, and we'll know we've got an honest man working for us. Everybody will be happy.
Bertie Lou especially. Warm up to it plenty, didn't she?"

But Rod couldn't be stampeded.
He'd never thought of leaving

FRENCH YOUTH WORKS ON PLANE WITHOUT WINGS

Paris.—(AP)—The son of M. Jean de Chappedelaine, French legislator, is an inventor. He is working on a new flying machine which has neither wings nor propellers.

As yet only the model has demonstrated its ability to remain in the air. The wingless ship is to have a 40 horsepower motor and its inventor says it will remain motionless in the air and will fly at all angles. A speed of 300 miles an hour is promised for it.

It will be necessary to construct special motors of maximum lightness. In case the motor chokes and fails to function the plane will fall a certain distance, but the air currents will set up a counter motion in the turbines and will cause them to break the fall by functioning as parachutes.

HYGIENE IN INDUSTRY

By FRANK L. RECTOR, M. D.,
Evanston, Illinois.

(The following is one of a series of articles prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial as part of its Better Health and Longer Life program. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Memorial, which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and laymen throughout the country to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 400 North Michigan Ave., Chicago.)

Industrial health problems have been recognized and appreciated in a significant way only during the past twenty-five years. With the rapid expansion of industrial activity, due to the development of machinery on the one hand and to new discoveries in the fields of chemistry, physics, and economics on the other, new materials were used in increasing quantities. The effect of these upon the health of those using them was not recognized at times until sickness or other impairment of health took place.

About this time workmen's compensation laws were enacted in many states and the medical, surgical, and hospital care of injured workers was made the duty of the employer who soon learned that he could reduce accidents and compensation costs by developing within his plant a program of medical supervision of his employees. And so the physician and nurse came into industry to render what service they could.

An industrial health program does not embrace the treatment of injury or illness among workers beyond that for which the employer is legally liable. Such a program does, however, devote considerable time to health education and disease prevention measures among employees and their families.

One of the best forms of health education is that of the physical examination of employees and prospective employees. During this examination such defects as are discovered are discussed with the worker and their significance explained. With a full knowledge of the worker's physical condition and of the requirements of the position he is to fill, an adjustment of the man to the job can be made that will enable him to do his work with the least wear and tear of his energies and ability. It will also lessen the liability to accident.

From the service the worker has received at the hands of the industrial health department he will take a greater interest in the health of his family and provide them with better living conditions and health supervision. In a community where the majority of the inhabitants are employees of an industry the health supervision in the factory is reflected strongly in the better health of the community resulting from adequate industrial health supervision.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"SACRAMENT" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 8.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 116:12, 17, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will offer to thee the sacrifice of thanksgiving, and will call upon the name of the Lord."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God" (Romans 12: 1, 2).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving, and meek" (p. 272).
